

City notes

Mayor George Gibson announced at the Upland Chamber of Commerce luncheon that "cooperation between the Chamber and the Council is at an all-time high."

He also brought the chamber up to date on the various city functions including:

--Upland will have an improved fire protection system by July due to the installation of a central dispatch system in Ontario for the West End Area. There will be one phone number to the central dispatch which will send the nearest available engine. "We have been working a long time to do this," said the Mayor.

--Upland employees took second place in the League of California Cities in the annual Safety Contest. This reflects the work of the employee safety committee headed by John Cook and will also show a financial advantage because a good safety record results in refunds to the city from workman's compensation premiums. The last return (1969-70) netted the city's general fund a whopping $18,173 dividend compared to the 1968-69 return of $5,738, according to Bob Kendro, director of the finance department of Upland.

--Upland has the services of B & B Ambulance service at 123 N. Campus.

--Southern California Edison is working with the city to underground all utilities on Foothill from Grove to the West Cucamonga channel this year. They plan to continue undergrounding utilities through the city of Upland as money is available.

--The environmental committee recommended a permanent monitoring station in Upland.

Councilman Hal Ballin reported that the Foothill Freeway Association is "moving along well". The Environmental Impact Study of the Foothill Freeway should be finished by March. He noted the importance of the designation of Interstate 15 for the Devore Freeway, a proposed north-south freeway which will connect with the proposed Foothill Freeway.

Candidate deadline

Twelve candidates are in the running for the Tuesday, April 11, municipal election. Today was the last day to file papers with the city clerk.

The candidates for mayor who have filed their papers include Hal Ballin, Jerry L. Morris, Joe J. Serrao, William Dean Campbell, and Abner B. Haldeman, a former Upland mayor.

There are four definite candidates for councilman, including George M. Gibson, John A. Meyer, Louis B. Penna and Thomas J. Hermes.

William L. Botten indicated at press time he would return his papers today.

Gerald A. Lane told the city clerk he would not return his papers and the city clerk has not heard from Bruce L. DePaula.

Bob Thrall, city treasurer, and Dee Carpenter, city clerk, have filed papers for their offices.

Voter registration for the election closes Thursday, Feb. 17.

Realtors appointed

Six local realtors, members of Ontario-Upland-Chino Board of Realtors, have been appointed to statewide committees of the 58,000-member California Real Estate Association by Joseph B. Carnahan of Northridge, CREA president. It was announced by L. V. "Lee" Alves, president of the board.

California Real Estate Political Affairs Committee and the Legislative Committee, Joe Kamansky was appointed to the Membership Committee, Gloria McGinnis was appointed to the Program Planning Committee, and Milton Stone was appointed to the Broker Salesman Committee.

An important aim of Mikesell's committee, according to the president of the National Association of Counties, is the re-writing of the "American County Platform" and to assist the nation's 3,000 counties to provide a "better transportation for their constituency."

Conner stressed the need for a "balanced transportation system of airports and public transportation."

Mikesell heads committee

Daniel D. Mikesell, Supervisor of the Second District, was selected to head the steering committee on transportation for the 20,000 member National Association of Counties.

President of the National Association of Counties William J. Conner made the announcement in Washington recently and said Mikesell was "selected to head this important committee because of his extensive background in all fields of transportation."

According to Conner, it is the first time in history "of our national association that we have had someone with the local, regional, state and national background."

He cited Mikesell's chairmanships of the Southern California Comprehensive Transportation Committee and the County Supervisor's Association of California's Transportation committee in addition to many other local, county and state transportation committee chairmanships.

According to Conner, the transportation committee is responsible for the "formulation

Chamber speaker says

'Multi' is transport key

The Upland Chamber of Commerce luncheon at the Arbor Restaurant featured John W. McDonald, director of engineering and technical services for the Automobile Club of Southern California.

McDonald stressed the need for "multiple modes of transportation, rather than a single type of transportation."

McDonald based his talk on a four-year mobility study of Southern California performed by his division of the Auto Club. A color film "To Keep Southern California Moving" illustrated the main points of his talk.

His study represents a departure in philosophy for the Automobile Club, which is shifting its scope from the individual concerns of the motorist to the problems of the general traveling public and the quality of life.

"Going to the moon was simple compared to the transportation problem that will face us in the future. Men had a definite goal in a predictable, rational environment," said McDonald. He stressed that "social challenges are little known, understood, or subject to rational prediction."

"Despite forecasters of doom," McDonald said, "we will not need to resort to enforced decisions of government" to plan for our communities as advocated by zero population enthusiasts who have a "desirable goal," but "an unrealistic prediction."

Because of changes in work patterns and the increase in leisure time and income, McDonald says this will lead to more complex matters of land use and transportation, as between urban, rural or city.

McDonald based his conclusion on a multi-means transportation system on the different needs of people within the cities and the outlying areas, the 16 million projected growth for Los Angeles and the desire to maintain a low density suburb.

His talk briefly touched on the integration of various land, sea and air modes in addition to sophisticated monitoring systems, and emphasized that 98 percent of all urban trips are made with autos.

McDonald cited four major points to improve Southland transportation:

--Coordinate levels of government, as SCAG (Southern California Association of Governments). While he believes in the principle of SCAG, it "has a long way to go" due to local power interests.

--Development of a common data base to monitor and evaluate future transportation needs of an area as LARTS.

--Greater use of existing surface streets in cities instead of being "distracted by the promise of futuristic systems." He urged separating pedestrian and vehicular traffic through vertical separation of walkways and sidewalks above the streets. He also noted the advantage of giving priority to buses on freeways.

--Accelerate the completion of presently planned freeways, particularly the Foothill Freeway.

While McDonald concedes it will "cost dearly," in tax dollars, it "holds the real promise of a better tomorrow for Southern California."

Transport plans

John W. McDonald, left, director of engineering and technical services for the Automobile Club of Southern California shows Upland Mayor George Gibson and Chamber of Commerce president, Dick Hield, potentials for future transportation growth in the area. McDonald's four year study represents the Auto Club's broader concern for the traveling problems of the general public, as well as the quality of life.

'Mini-courses' offer variety art work

CLAREMONT - The Scripps Fine Arts Foundation "Mini-Courses" offer a variety of opportunities, to the beginning artist. One needs no previous artistic experience to participate. Not only members themselves but their husbands may attend, as many have in the evening courses. All courses except the Batik course are held on the Scripps College campus.

This month Professor James Fuller has conducted three Friday morning sessions in print-making.

In February, Professor Alan Blizzard will conduct a Painting-Work Shop which will include experimentation in various media and techniques including stain painting, spray painting as well as other traditional techniques. A painting will be done each week. There will be four, Tuesday evening sessions, February 8, 15, 22, 29th from 7 to 10 p.m. Professor Blizzard has been teaching at Scripps since 1963. He has a B.A. from Massachusetts School of Art, a M.A. from the University of Arizona and a M.F.A. and PhD from the University of Iowa.

He has paintings at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York and Denver Art Museum. His three color lithograph from the "Hero" series was chosen by Fine Arts this year as its, "Limited Edition." His One-Man show will run from February 1 to the 25th in Balch Gallery.

Course number 6, Batik will be instructed by Mrs. Elizabeth Fuller. There will be four Wednesday afternoon sessions March 1, 8, 15, and 22. This course will offer an introductory course to an age old technique of fabric decoration. The course is designed to help the beginner explore wax and dye techniques of true batik as well as experiments with contemporary methods of the dye and paste resist.

Mrs. Fuller attended Chouard Art School in Los Angeles. Her works have been shown in Design West Show at the Pasadena Art Museum and the "Egg and I Gallery." She has contributed work to two books published by the Reinhold Press.

In April and May, five sessions on the 3, 10, 17, 24 and May 1 will be conducted by Neda Al-Hilali on "Fiber as a Medium." It will be an exploration of dimensional fiber structures employing a variety of construction methods such as knotting, looping and lace making in an effort to discover the expressive qualities of various fiber-like materials.

Mrs. Al-Hilali is an award winning artist whose work is included in the International Tapestry Exhibit at UCLA. She joined the Scripps faculty last September and teaches a course in the design and construction of fabric. She received her B.A. and M.A. from the University of California at Los Angeles where she also taught. Course 8, "Instant Art on Porcelain Tiles", will be conducted by Professor Richard Petterson who is the Director of the Clark Museum in the Humanities Center.

He has been a member of the Scripps College faculty since 1947, during that time he has served as Director of Art Exhibits at the L.A. County Fair, as Director of Design in Formosa for the U.S. State Department published many books and an art portfolio. Professor Petterson will instruct in a new method of free painting with colorful ceramic porcelain glazes on tiles. No experience is necessary.

The final course will be conducted by Marilyn Blizzard on Process Exhibition. It will start with an empty room; the goal being to create an exhibition using the materials at hand as an extension of the room itself. The changing of the room would be an involvement of the students with materials in the designated spaces. Three sessions from 9:30 a.m. to noon will be on May 2, 3 and 4th. Mrs. Blizzard is teaching Art History at Chaffey College. She studied at Massachusetts School of Art and received her masters degree from Claremont Graduate School.

Although the "Mini-Courses" are open to members only, new members will be welcome in the Fine Arts Foundation. For information regarding the courses contact Mrs. John Miller, 213-339-6900.

Eye-ful

Many hundreds of people were tested for glaucoma at the Upland Host Lions Club free Glaucoma Detection Clinic last week. The doctor placed his instrument against the patient's eyes and measured the pressure of the fluid inside the eyeball. Should this elevated pressure not be detected, it will accumulate and destroy the nerve endings in the back of the eye and the person will permanently lose his vision.

Your job.

It's one reason we need additional power plants.

Can you picture what would happen to employment in this area if we ran short of electricity?

Nearly everything would stop. Including production lines.

That could seriously affect the welfare of you and your family.

Today there's enough electricity to go around.

But as the population continues to grow, industry will need additional electricity for new jobs.

To meet this growing need, Edison must be permitted to build additional power plants now. And the transmission lines to deliver that power.

Nuclear power plants are one of the ways to provide additional electricity. Nuclear power plants are clean, proven and smog-free.

Other ways to generate electricity are under intensive research or being developed now. Meanwhile, existing methods are steadily being improved.

Electricity and jobs. The two go together.

Jerry Pettis announces flood funding

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Following the release of the President's budget Congressman Jerry L. Pettis (R-Calif.) announced the funds requested for flood control projects in San Bernardino County. "Early in the budget process I joined with the County Flood Control Engineer W.A. Sidler in supporting accelerated funding for our area."

"In the West End of the county, the Cucamonga Creek project will receive $550,000. While this is not enough to complete the detailed design plans, I will be working with the Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate to increase this funding so that the plans can be finished by mid-1973."

"For Lytle and Warm Creeks, the President has requested an appropriation of $6,400,000 to accelerate construction on this important project. This figure is above the recommendation of the California Water Commission."

"The final construction funds for Mojave River Dam will be allocated this year with $1,000,000. The Dam which is now providing flood protection for those downstream in Hesperia, Apple Valley, Victorville, and Barstow will be completed with facilities of maintenance and operation."

"Project investigations will continue on the Santa Ana River, with an appropriation of $200,000 including San Timoteo Creek, Rialto Channel, Zanja in Redlands, Wildwood and Wilson Creek in Yucaipa. Day, Deer and San Seavine Creeks Project will receive $35,000 for investigation. Once the investigations are completed, the Corps of Engineers will report to the Public Works Committee of Congress with their recommendations. I will be testifying urging immediate funding for construction."

Rising cost of fuel oil can raise electric rates

ONTARIO - Unless there is a reversal in the rising cost of low sulfur fuel oil or unexpected increases in the quantities of natural gas supplied to Southern California in the near future, the cost of electricity to iron the family wash -- and to do hundreds of other services -- will be trending upward.

The reason -- a shortage of gas fuel is plaguing the electric utility industry and having a substantial impact on the cost of producing power, according to a Southern California Edison Company executive. Competition for the world's limited low sulfur oil resources used to prevent smog, has driven up the price of the low sulfur fuel oil which Edison must use to supplement its inadequate gas supplies.

While gas fuel represented 79 percent of the fuel used in Edison's oil and gas fueled-electric generating plants located in Southern California in 1970, declining to 65 percent in 1971, Seaman expects gas availability to Edison will slip further -- to 59 percent this year -- and to below 25 percent by 1975. Edison's use of expensive low sulfur fuel oil will have to raise as gas availability drops, Seaman said. In terms of Edison's total energy resources which include hydro power, power purchased from other agencies, nuclear generation and power produced by coal fueled generating plants located in Nevada and New Mexico, fuel oil was needed to supply only about 13 percent of Edison's generation energy requirements in 1970 but is expected to be needed to supply about 52 percent by 1975.

"Edison's fuel costs will rise sharply because of the rapidly changing proportions of the fuel mix," he said.

To illustrate to what extent the changing mix will have on what Edison has to pay for fuel, Seaman noted that SCE's fuel bill last year was $153 million -- 20 percent more than in 1970. It will jump to nearly $205 million this year -- a whopping gain of 33 percent -- and then soar to over $370 million in 1976.

"The cost of fuel used by our thermal generating stations in 1970 averaged 31.1 cents per million BTU's," the Edison official said. (BTU stands for British thermal unit and is the amount of heat required to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree F.). "In 1971, it was up to 39 cents per million BTU's and I expect it to rise to about 43.4 cents this year."

Low sulfur oil, which is needed by Edison's generating stations because it meets air pollution control requirements, comes mainly from Indonesia -- some 8,000 miles away. It's a long haul for the enormous amount of fuel needed to help keep power flowing to the 7 million persons who depend on SCE for their electricity.

"Our present storage capacity totals nearly 13 million barrels, representing an investment of about $56 million in inventory, storage and transportation facilities," Seaman declared, "and we're going to have to spend close to $36 million to build another 8 million barrels of storage capacity in the Los Angeles Basin area."

It's another reason why the cost of doing the family wash, refrigeration and the hundreds of other services performed by electricity, will edge moderately upward in the next few years.

It's also another reason, Seaman said, why SCE recently applied to the California Public Utilities Commission for a procedure (similar to several other states) which would provide a procedure for the PUC to consider for adjustments in rates from time to time to reflect fuel cost changes.

Periodic changes under such a procedure would extend the time between major full-fledged rate case proceedings and result in savings to taxpayers and ratepayers, Seaman concluded.

Exploring history can be an adventure

CLAREMONT - Would you like to take a trip back into world history? You almost can, by visiting the Edward M. Nagel Collection which will be on exhibit at the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps College Thursday Jan. 20 through Monday Feb. 28.

For here is an extensive collection of artworks and artifacts representing almost every culture and time period. You can see the heavy jade ear plugs the Mayan and Aztec Indians of Mexico used as earrings... View the indented wooden roller which they dipped into paint and then onto their bodies to make intricate designs.

You can imagine a Japanese painter filling a colorful, miniature ceramic fish with water to use in his work and marvel at the complexity of the set of fish, mostly Japanese and Korean and from the 19th century. The full face bear mask of bronze with teeth and tongue can bring visions of the Ainu aborigines of Japan and their religious ceremonies of the 18th century.

Across the oceans you can visualize prisoners during the French revolution and Napoleonic wars carefully hoarding bones from their meals and then carving them into a 18 inch high by 16 inch long working guillotine complete with a man's figure losing his head. A smaller guillotine of the same origin is displayed nearby. Then there's Spain in 1450 represented by a Spanish retablo from the Aragonese school of a richly gowned Abbot seated upon an enormous throne with two angels on either side.

The Berbers of North Africa are represented by huge triangular fibula which they used as safety pins to hold their cloaks together. A half of a child's face mask reminds you of Coptic Egyptian burial practices. A highly ornate forged iron stirrup takes you back to 15th century Spain, while a Greek Byzantine icon of the 14th century depicting the Eucharist Trinity recalls that bygone era.

The hundreds of artifacts and artworks in the Nagel Collection were given to Scripps College recently by Edward M. Nagel, President of the Oroweat Baking Company, South San Francisco.

In addition to the above mentioned pieces, there are rare, beautifully lettered and illuminated books, rich fabrics, sculptures, paintings and artifacts ranging from jewelry to tools in every conceivable material.

The public is invited to view them from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday at the Clark Humanities Museum.

Grant level increased for welfare recipients

SACRAMENTO - State Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson has announced that he has instructed all counties to implement a key section of the Welfare Reform Act of 1971.

"The section that the counties will implement will raise grant levels for 2/3 of the recipients on California's Aid to Families With Dependent Children program," said Carleson.

The section allowing this increased aid has been blocked by the California Supreme Court since September 28, 1971, pending the Court's decision in the case of Villa et al. v. Hall et al.

Carleson said in ordering the grant increase, "I am pleased that we are now in a position to increase aid payments to recipients who must rely almost exclusively on welfare to meet their daily needs. A major aim of the welfare reform program has been to direct increased benefits to the truly needy." The increases Carleson referred to will raise the AFDC maximum benefit level from $261 a month to $280 a month for an AFDC family of four. They will be made retroactive to October 1, 1971, the operative date of the Welfare Reform Act.

The Villa case, which delayed the increases, is a suit brought by AFDC recipients who have significant outside income in addition to their welfare grants. This group challenged a part of the law which would have resulted in lowering grants to high-income recipients. The court action stayed this part of the section and also stayed the part that the Legislature provided to increase the maximums. The court upheld the attack on the Welfare Reform Act by deleting the language that lowered the grants to high-income recipients. Carleson went on to explain, "The language struck down by the court represented a significant policy decision agreed upon by the Legislative and Executive branches in deliberation prior to the passage of the Welfare Reform Act."

"Under the Welfare Reform Act funds would be distributed in a more equitable manner to assure that grants to the truly needy would be significantly increased without any additional burden on California taxpayers," Carleson added. The increased grants to approximately 2/3 of the AFDC families would have been balanced by decreases to the high income recipients.

The State the decision to the U. S. Supreme Court, which is hearing a similar case from Texas.

Carleson said, "It is unfortunate that the Villa case frustrates the desirable goal of raising benefits to the truly needy without increasing the cost of California's welfare program at the expense of the California taxpayers."

Right to Life Sunday slated by new chapter

UPLAND - The West End chapter of the Right to Life League of Southern California held its first meeting Monday, Jan. 17.

At this meeting plans were formulated for Right to Life Sunday, Feb. 6, at St. Joseph's Church, Campus Ave., Upland. Two members of the Right to Life League, Thomas Maeder and Robert Durr, will speak at all the masses.

Maeder and Durr are teachers at Pioneer High School in Whittier and have co-authored the book Love for Life. Durr will be in the parish hall after all the masses to answer questions and show slides. Literature will also be available.

This is a new chapter, therefore an invitation is extended to all who are interested regardless of religious affiliations. All are welcome to attend. For further information call Gloria Velto at 985-5577 or Peggy Lowrey at 982-9242.

3HO opens

CLAREMONT - A branch of the national organization, 3HO, is now open in Pomona. Also known as Healthy, Happy, Holy Organization, the group is dedicated to establishing a strong positive lifestyle, using yoga as a foundation.

The center is located at 575 N. Hamilton Blvd., in Pomona, and offers classes in Kundalini Yoga. The organization has also been successful in rehabilitating thousands of drug users in over 100 centers in the U.S. Treatment centers around breathing techniques, exercises, and positive counseling toward a life style alternative to drug use.

3HO also cooperates with other service agencies in the community. For information on the drug programs and yoga classes, call 622-9575.

'Good eating' publication now available

SACRAMENTO - Publication of "Good Eating," a low-budget nutritional guide for the thousands of smaller aged care homes in California, was announced today by state welfare director, Robert Carleson.

It is believed to be one of the first - if not the first - ever issued by a state for residential care homes housing 50 aged residents or less.

Carleson said the 32-page booklet will be distributed free of charge to administrators of the 4,000 residential care homes in the state, "in the interests of improved nutrition for our elderly and the most efficient and economical meal planning by those who take care of them."

It also will be given to another 4,000 "Family Care" homes providing transitional care for the mentally disabled in California communities.

"Good Eating" features such items as a nutritionally - balanced dinner for 78 cents. It was written by Margaret Finley, Home Economist for the State Department of Social Welfare.

A foreword by Carleson points out that "few of the smaller (residential care) homes can afford the services of a dietitian to aid in food management, and yet knowledge about nutrition and well-planned menus are a vital part of preventive health care services for aged persons."

Carleson said also that many residential care home administrators and licensing workers had requested development of such a nutritional guide. It is printed in a loose-leaf format so that material can be added and replaced for daily use.

Although "Good Eating" is designed primarily for the use of homes that care for 50 persons or less, it is considered useful to larger institutions as well.

There will be 50-cent per copy charge to other than residential care administrators and family care facilities. A sale supply will be maintained at SDSW headquarters Publications Unit, 744 P St., Sacramento 95814.

The applications are for $1,958,400 in state money under the Davis-Grunsky Act and $700,000 from the Federal Land and Water Conservation Fund.

Total cost of the proposed Prado Regional Park is $3,133,200. However, if the state and federal grants are obtained the total development would cost the County only $474,800.

San Bernardino County obtained rights to develop the park site in 1966 under a 50-year lease from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The lease involves 2,113 acres in the Prado Basin, costs the County nothing and is the only such arrangement in the United States.

Plans will include the development of facilities for boating, fishing, picnicking, camping, hiking, and swimming.

The entire park is planned above the 515-foot elevation which is the maximum level of water to be retained behind the Prado Dam. Only during a major flood would water be allowed to rise above this level.

Such a catastrophe can be expected once in 300 years.

Dates star in annual festival

INDIO -- The word "date" can mean several different things. But here in California's Coachella Valley, a desert oasis and winter resort area extending from Palm Springs through Indio to the Salton Sea, dates can mean a $10 million agricultural crop. This is the major commercial date producing region in the Western Hemisphere.

And, once again, the winter harvest will be celebrated with Riverside County's National Date Festival, Feb. 18-27, here at Indio. With its Arabian Nights theme, this has been termed one of the nation's most unusual expositions. A modern Queen Scheherazade and her court reign over the event.

Visitors to the 140-acre fairgrounds at Indio with its scenes right out of the Arabian Nights are transported back to the exotic land of ancient Baghdad.

Towering date palms from foreign lands grace the garden promenades producing rare fruit with such odd names as Tadala, Ashag, Sebba, Loo-sif, Kaiby, Azmashi, Oog-bales, Khadrawy and others. There is also a 40-acre date garden on the fairgrounds.

The Babylonians are believed to have cultivated date palms 8,000 years ago. It was such an important food item to the Arabians that they named it the "tree of life". An old Arabian legend attributes its origin to the clay which remained after God had created man.

Usually, on every acre, one male date palm is planted with a harem of 49 palms. The male date palm bears no dates, but produces enough pollen for the blossoms of the fruitful 49 female palms.

Climb aboard your magic carpet and fly back to the land of date gardens as old Baghdad again comes to life at the 1972 National Date Festival, Feb. 18-27, at Indio.

Withdrawal date asked

SAN BERNARDINO--The San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors has adopted a resolution urging President Richard M. Nixon to set a date for the complete withdrawal of all U.S. troops in Vietnam pending the release of prisoners of war by North Vietnam.

The resolution states "The Board of Supervisors of the County of San Bernardino wishes to inform the President of its concern for the members of the United States armed forces who are engaged in the Vietnam conflict and also its deep concern for the welfare and release of members of the United States armed forces who are being held prisoner by the North Vietnamese government."

It believes local governments should express such concern to federal officials as well.

Survey planned

LOS ANGELES -- This week 44 U.S. Census interviewers started knocking at the doors of a scientifically selected sample of households in Riverside and San Bernardino Counties. They are doing a survey on employment and unemployment. This is done as a part of the Emergency Employment Act which was passed by congress several months ago.

The purpose of the survey is to provide a measurement to gauge the effectiveness of the Act in reducing unemployment. It is expected that interviews on the survey will be finished by the end of February.

A temporary Census office has been set up in Room 201, 390 W. 5th Street, San Bernardino. It is headed by George Whitaker, a supervisor on the staff of the Census Bureau's Los Angeles office. Assisting Whitaker are seven crew leaders who are regular part-time employees of the Census Bureau. Each crew leader will supervise six or seven local interviewers.

On their calls, interviewers will show official identification cards. They will ask questions about the members of households, their ages, employment or unemployment, occupations and other facts of the same general nature. All information given the interviewers is held in strict confidence and can-

EEA eases SB County unemployment

SAN BERNARDINO--Ruben S. Ayala, chairman of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors, has announced that nearly 800 persons have been hired in San Bernardino County under the Emergency Employment Act (EEA).

Ayala has been designated EEA program agent for San Bernardino County by the federal authorities.

When the County's application for EEA funding was originally accepted by the U.S. Department of Labor, 787 public service positions were approved to be filled by the County, its 13 incorporated cities with populations of less than 100,000, the Superintendent of Schools and the County's Special Districts.

Ayala said 700 or 86 percent of those jobs have now been filled with more than 250 persons being hired since Dec. 1.

Since approval of the original grant application, an additional 83 positions have been authorized to be filled by the 13 cities from within their individual populations.

Ayala said 72 or 87 percent of those jobs have now been filled with 44 persons having been hired since Dec. 1.

San Bernardino County is one of nearly 700 government agencies coordinating an employment program under the Emergency Employment Act. Under the terms of the Act, the City of San Bernardino, having a population of more than 100,000, operates its own program.

Funded primarily by federal funds, the program makes jobs available to unemployed and underemployed persons who meet the specifications of the act.

Ayala noted that persons employed under the act not only obtain jobs, but receive training with which to qualify for permanent positions not funded by the EEA.

In addition to the existing grants, San Bernardino County has applied for another $248,200 to fund 45 more jobs to be filled by the 13 cities from their residents.

Mexico lauds - supports Padua Theatre

CLAREMONT -- The secretary of education for the United States of Mexico has offered support from his country to the Padua Institute and Padua Hills Theatre here.

Senor Augustin Yunez, secretary of education, promised to send costumes, a library of folklore and history and other materials in his recent meeting with Senor Eligio Herrera, director of Padua Hills Theatre.

The theatre produces folk plays about Mexico the year around. Each play is set in a different area or state and all of the dances, songs, costumes and customs are authentically presented; a credit to Senor Herrera and his trips into the remote villages and regions of Mexico.

Returning from his most recent trip the director stated that the meeting with Senor Yunez and other government leaders was very "exciting." "They told me they are very impressed with our authentic presentations of their country and would like to see a theatre like ours in Guadalajara, Mexico City and Oaxaca," he added.

Herrera was in Mexico on a working vacation to gather new materials, ideas and background for the coming plays at Padua Hills Theatre, now in its 40th consecutive year of such productions.

Much of his time was spent in museums, libraries and bookstores; sketching costumes, recording music, charting dances, buying costumes and volumes written about the folk arts of Mexico. One of his greatest finds is a copy of the actual writings of the Franciscan Fathers who helped colonize Mexico. Records prove that these pioneering churchmen nurtured much of the basic folk music and dances of the indigent Indian peoples, blending it with that of the Spanish settlers.

During his latest trip to Mexico, Senor Herrera visited a museum in Jalapa, Veracruz; watched folk dances in Atlixco; bought a fiesta costume from a dancer in Cuatla in the State of Morales; took time to participate in dances in order to learn them; and spent hours talking to the people who plan fiestas, produce folk dances and participate in pageants and plays about their heritage.

Patrons of Padua Hills will see the results of his studies on the stage in the plays to be presented during the coming months and in the dining room, when the players entertain during luncheon and dinner.

Padua Hills is located on Padua Avenue, three miles north of Foothill Boulevard in Claremont. The plays are presented at 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays through Saturdays with matinees at 2:30 on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Reservations are recommended but are not always necessary. Phone (714) 626-1288.

Upland splits week's action

BY RON PRESTRIDGE

UPLAND -- The hopes of the Upland High School varsity basketball team to repeat as SAL champions was dealt a severe blow, as the Highlanders dropped a heartbreaker, 56-54 to heirs apparent Montclair.

The game was mainly a defensive one, with neither team hitting for much of a percentage, in the first half. Upland's man-to-man defense kept the Cavaliers from getting many good shots, while Upland couldn't seem to buy a basket, shooting only 10 of the 30 from the floor.

Friday night Upland showed with a display of balanced scoring and rebounding attack as they took a 72-64 victory home from Chino, in the first game of the second round of SAL action. Bob Iverson scored 23 points for the Scots, while Randy Nickolei tanked 18, and Satch Sanders poured in 15 points and 10 rebounds. Phil Pinto capped scoring honors with 25 markers for the Cowboys.

In the first half, the game followed a pattern that is usual in Upland-Chino encounter. Upland would score four or five straight points, then Chino would come back with four or five. Midway through the second quarter, Randy Nickolei put the Scots ahead to stay with the sinking of a charity toss, the score was 23-22.

The final death blow for Chino came when their three leading scorers, Pinto, Al Martinez, and Kevin Finnerty all fouled out, Chino seemingly lost their poise after that trio was gone, and could never muster another rally.

(High)-land marks -- Leading scorers for the week were: Iverson 45, Nickolei 36, and Sanders 15. Upland's shooting from the floor continued to improve last week, (about 45%)... the Highlanders much maligned bench came through like champs last week. Bob Fenton, Matt Phillips and Curtis Oldenkamp gave Upland great ball-handling that gave the opposition few turnovers, while Stu DuVall pulled down many important rebounds, and was responsible for forcing Montclair and Chino into turning the ball over... And now a word from our "sorry about that department." The record for assists in one season is 144, set by Louie Engle last year, not 132 as previously reported here. Sorry about that... Coach Jerry Cobb's ever-improving JV's split their action for the week, losing to Montclair 63-57, and trashing Chino 73-60... Tomorrow night, Upland treks to the den of the Claremont Wolf-pack.

AREA SPORTS

SD Saints' halo remains intact

BY JIM LOUGH

SAN DIMAS -- The San Dimas Saints, powered by Jeff Nelson's 40 points, rolled easily over the Webb Gauls Friday afternoon 77-43. Nelson, leading all Valley scorers for the four previous weeks, upped his average to 22.4 points per game, to increase his lead. Despite the fact that Nelson played just over three quarters, he pumped in 15 field goals and went 10 for 12 from the charity line, and hauled down 12 rebounds.

Saints' forward Jerry Klein, enjoying his best game of the season, had 14 for the winners, as every Saint got into the game.

Leading Webb in scoring was their outstanding forward Mike Salvo, followed closely by teammate Bob Burke. The duo had 16 and 13 respectively.

It was the fourth consecutive game that San Dimas had 72 points or more.

On Tuesday San Dimas hosted the Sherman High Braves. Nelson's 28 points paced the Saints to a 78-56 win, as every member of the team pitched in to help the cause. The victory may have been a costly one, as the Saints' center, Bob Rollins, injured his left ankle. Rollins missed the Webb game, and there is some serious doubts that he will be able to take the floor against Aquinas.

Wayne Moses tallied 18 points, 14 in the first half against Sherman, to record one of his best games of the season. For the Indians, Wilmer Yazzie and Ken Hough each had 15, while Vic Van Fleet put 10 points through the hoop.

San Dimas' defense against Webb effectively limited the Gauls' offensive attack. They were able to muster anemic 5 points in the first quarter against San Dimas pressure. The Gauls found very few rebounds available, especially on the Saints' boards, because of the accuracy of Nelson's shooting. John Schober was the number two rebounder in the game with 10 behind Nelson's 12. Jerry Klein of San Dimas and Bob Burke of Webb each had 8.

By the time this is being read, the game between San Dimas and the Aquinas Falcons will be history. The Saints, to a man, are extremely anxious to avenge the single loss on their Arrowhead League record, which came at the hands of the Falcons in the "missed basket" episode.

Friday evening, Feb. 4, the Saints will host the La Sierra Eagles. The last time these two teams met was on Jan. 8, when San Dimas rolled to a 61-36 win. A strong Saints' defense, coupled with 23 turnovers by the Eagles, made the contest a yawner. La Sierra was held to 7 points in the first two quarters and only 8 in the final frame.

The Eagles, however, did something that hasn't been done all year, and that was to shut Jeff Nelson out without a score in one quarter. They did it in the third. This factor had no bearing on the final outcome, but indicated that they have some defensive ability.

It's Dental Health Week

February 6-12 is the 24th annual National Children's Dental Health Week. As part of the observance, Bonita Publishing, in cooperation with the American Dental Association offers a series of questions and answers on facts you should know about dental health.

Q-I have seen newspaper articles recently which say that tooth decay will soon be completely eliminated as a disease problem. Is this really true?

A-Tooth decay will not be totally eliminated, at least in the foreseeable future. However, it can be prevented in large part and one of the well-established and most effective decay preventives is water supplies. Fluorides are being used in other ways to prevent decay, especially for people in communities that do not have fluoridation. The American Dental Association recommends the use of fluoride dentifrices, particularly for children. Additionally, fluoride can be applied directly on children's teeth at periodic intervals. Because the sealant protects only the chewing surfaces of teeth, we must still rely on fluoridation to protect the remainder of the exposed tooth enamel.

Scientists are studying other methods of preventing decay, including trying to isolate the specific bacteria which unite with foods and other debris in the mouth to form decay-causing acids.

Q-My dentist just told me to stop smoking, as I could be in danger of developing cancer. This really scared me. Can smoking really cause cancer of the mouth?

A-Smoking is a major factor in oral cancer, just as it is in lung cancer. The incidence of oral cancer is four times as great among smokers as among non-smokers. Oral cancer is particularly insidious because it is usually painless until it is too late for treatment. Oral cancer is one of the most malignant of all cancers. You should know the five warning signals of oral cancer. They are:

--A sore on the lips, gums, or inside the mouth that will not heal.
--Any swelling of the neck, lips, tongue, or palate.
--A numbness or loss of feeling in any part of the mouth.
--White patches or red spots on the oral structure.

Since early detection of oral cancer is vital to its cure, see your dentist regularly.

Q-How safe are the electric toothbrushes and water jets? I'm considering buying each of these items for my family.

A-The American Dental Association evaluates these devices for safety and effectiveness. Currently, the Association has recognized 13 powered toothbrushes as safe and effective. It points out that powered brushes are especially recommended for children and physically handicapped persons who have difficulty in using manual brushes. You can check with your family dentist to find out which brushes and irrigators have been accepted.

Q-It seems to me that the cost of dental care is getting higher and higher. I'm finding it difficult to keep my family in good dental health. Can't the dental profession do something to keep costs down?

A-You are right. Dental care is more expensive than it was, say ten years ago. But so is just about everything else. You and your pocketbook know that inflation is a constant concern.

There are ways to take the cost of dental care down, and we shall discuss some of them for you. If you have a dental school in your area, you may qualify to receive dental care at its clinic. All types of dental procedures are performed at such clinics. The work is closely supervised by faculty dentists. Generally, the fees are quite low. However, dental patients are accepted by dental school clinics only if their dental problems are of teaching value.

Another way to manage dental care costs is through pre-payment, or dental insurance. You can check with your employer or dental society to see if a prepayment plan is available in your area.
If you are classified as medically needy—which means you have sufficient income to support your family but not enough left over to pay health care costs—you may qualify for dental care under your state Medicaid program.

You should check with your local dental society or department of public health to see if your state has a Medicaid program or if it has other programs that provide health care, including dental care.
Q—Our family always seems to have gum problems although we see our dentist regularly. What exactly is the cause of gum disease?

A—Dental scientists know the process that causes gum disease, but they do not know the mechanism that triggers the process. Plaque—a colorless and transparent film on the teeth—is a chief villain in gum disease.
Plaque is composed of oral debris and bacteria.
If plaque is allowed to form without interruption, it hardens into what is called calculus. As plaque and calculus continue to accumulate on the tooth, the gums eventually become irritated, break away from the tooth and begin to recede. As the gums recede, pockets are formed where additional food, debris and bacteria collect. This causes inflammation. If calculus and plaque continue to grow unimpeded, the gums and bone may become so diseased that the teeth lose their vital support and must be extractioned. The plaque-formation process is halted, first, by efficient and regular toothbrushing after every meal, including snacks.

Q—I understand a report has been issued about abrasive toothpastes. Does this mean that the toothpaste I am using may actually be harmful?
A—The report you cite was published last year by the American Dental Association, which rated all major dentifrices on an ascending scale of abrasivity. When the report was issued, the ADA pointed out that some den-tifrices may be harmful to a particular individual's teeth. Some individuals require a more abrasive dentifrice; for others only a low-abrasive dentifrice is safe.

The study also pointed up the fact that many of the so-called "brightener" toothpastes were actually rather low in abrasives. However, all toothpastes contain some abrasive.
The best person to give you advice on whether to use a high-abrasive toothpaste is your family dentist.

Emergency unemployment compensation in California

SACRAMENTO - A senior Reagan Administration official announced today that a new federal-state agreement providing emergency unemployment compensation to many jobless persons who have exhausted all rights to unemployment insurance benefits has been implemented in California, beginning Sunday, Jan. 30.

The official, L.A. Bailey, a deputy director of the Department of Human Resources Development and head of HRD's unemployment insurance program, said that any person may file who has exhausted all rights to benefits under the previous federal program of extended benefits (which started December 20, 1970) and also has no current rights under any other federal or state UI program.

Bailey said that most of HRD's UI field offices throughout California were ready to take claims beginning Tuesday, Feb. 1.

Essentially, Bailey said, the agreement provides for federal financing of up to 13 weeks of benefit payments at the same weekly rate the claimant received during his regular eligibility period. The exact number of weeks would be half of the claimant's regular benefit period, he added.

Bailey said the agreement is based on the federal Emergency Unemployment Compensation Act signed into law last month by President Nixon which provides for 100 percent federal financing for the new program.

The agreement calls for benefit payments to begin when California's rate of insured unemployment reaches or exceeds a theoretical rate of 6.5 percent, consisting of the actual rate plus a 13-week exhaustion rate.

"Our actual insured unemployment rate at the latest figuring was 5.98 percent," Bailey said. "After adding the 13-week exhaustion rate, we have a theoretical figure of 7.66 percent, so we are ready to take claims under this new program."

Bailey added that California, along with some other states, was implementing the new law on the earliest possible date -- 30 days after signature by the President.

Bailey pointed out that these rates should not be confused with the unemployment rate for California as a whole, which is 6.1 percent.

"Although California's total unemployment rate has been going down for many months, temporary periods of prolonged unemployment do occur and this new agreement is aimed at helping insured individuals in this situation," Bailey said.

The claims will be accepted for approximately six months. The final date for filing for this emergency coverage is June 24, 1972. However, any person who receives at least one week of benefits by June 30, will be entitled to his full benefit period of up to 13 weeks of additional payments, so the program will be helping some individuals up to and including the last week of September.

Bailey said claimants should bring their unemployment insurance identification booklet and social security card when filing. Emergency claims may also be filed on an interstate basis. The same rights of appeal from disqualification will be provided as are provided under the regular program," he concluded.

VA counseling helps home buyer

LOS ANGELES - Veterans Administration counseling, to help new G.I. home buyers understand the details of home buying, will be expanded to meet the needs of minority group veterans in eleven cities, the VA announced recently.

The service is now available in only two cities. One pilot program, the Los Angeles service is available at two locations -- one for the Spanish-speaking community in the East Los Angeles Service Center at 929 North Bonnie Beach Place, and the other for the predominantly black population in the Watts-Compton area at the Veterans Assistance Center, 101 South Willowbrook, Compton.

"Where possible," Elliott explained, "loan specialists will counsel home buyers, assisting them in selecting homes with all the convenience advantages that make home ownership a sound investment."

Counselors also will help the buyer make certain the house meets his needs, and that its costs are within his financial means, he added.

Early planning urged for park reservations

SACRAMENTO - If you're planning to vacation in a state park this year, the State Department of Parks and Recreation urges you to plan ahead and take advantage of the computerized campsite reservation service to avoid disappointment. Popular southern beach parks such as Doheny and San Clemente in Orange County are already filled for some nights during the Easter vacation period.

Reservations for campsites in state parks can be made at any of the over 240 Ticketron outlets in the state or at the Department's Sacramento headquarters. To get the location of the Ticketron outlet nearest you, call (213) 878-2211 in the Los Angeles area, (714) 427-5133 in San Diego. You can also reserve campsites by mail. For forms and information, call or write the Department of Parks and Recreation, at P. O. Box 2390, Sacramento 95811, telephone (916) 445-8828.

Reservations are accepted up to 90 days in advance and must be received by the Tuesday of the week (Sunday through Saturday) preceding your stay.

Teacher's art course at Cal Poly

POMONA - Beginning next month, Art in the Schools, a six-unit extension course exploring the development of art programs in the schools and the relationship of these programs to the new Framework in Art Education in California, will be offered by the California State Polytechnic College, Kellogg-Voorhis, Pomona extension program.

Miss Diane Divilbess, Cal Poly associate professor of art, will include in the class discussions the history of art in the schools, art heritage, research in children's art and programs of expressive, perceptual and manipulative skills at different grade levels. The course will cover the uses of graphic, printing and craft materials as they relate to the various types of art programs for the disadvantaged, gifted, physically handicapped, emotionally disturbed, and "normal" grade level children.

The school art course will be of special interest to teachers and students working for their teaching credentials; however, persons with baccalaureate and advanced degrees, or others interested in the course, may enroll with the consent of the instructor.

The course will be taught Tuesdays for 15 weeks, February 22 through June 6, from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. in Cal Poly, Pomona's administration building, room 312.

Students may enroll during the first class session, but advance registration and payment of the $76.50 course fee may be paid by contacting the Cal Poly extension office. Telephone 213/964-6424 or 714/595-1241, Ext. 551 for additional information.

TV celebrity to aid Crippled Children

LOS ANGELES---James Franciscus, star of ABC's TV series, "Longstreet", will serve as volunteer chairman of the 1972 Crippled Children's Seal Campaign, Ricky Hall, 10, of Redondo Beach, has been named the 1972 Crippled Children's Seal Boy.

In making the announcement, Newton Kalman, president of The Crippled Children's Society, said the pair will lead the annual fundraising appeal to be conducted in the greater Los Angeles area February 28 through April 2.

Franciscus said he is pleased to accept this assignment because of the high standards of local service provided by The Crippled Children's Society to the more than 14,000 handicapped youngsters whom Ricky represents.

Franciscus joins Ivy Baker Priest in heading a corps of more than 12,000 volunteers who give time to the Society throughout the year. Because of this massive volunteer support, last year's contributions were raised at a low 10.3 percent in costs.

Low fund raising costs and high service standards have won for The Crippled Children's Society endorsement by the Social Service Department of the City of Los Angeles for 22 consecutive years.

Ricky is a victim of Legg (sic) Perthes, a crippling condition resulting from a knee injury suffered about two years ago. Franciscus had a similar knee injury during his senior year in high school, so he knows how it is to need special help.

Last summer, Ricky attended Camp Paivika, The Crippled Children's Society's resident summer camp in the San Bernardino Mountains. Ricky participates in recreational activities on a year around basis at the Long Beach Regional Center of The Crippled Children's Society, one of seven regional centers operated by the Society.

Franciscus said donations to the Crippled Children's Seal Campaign will enable the Society to continue to provide a wide range of free services to handicapped youngsters like Ricky. These services include group recreation, speech therapy, family counseling, resident summer camping, swimming instruction, job training and employment and provision of orthopaedic aids.

New dimensions for education cited

POMONA-In the future greater thought will be given to new inter-institutional arrangements providing better coordination and cooperation in education. Institutions of higher education will become less unilateral in their educational activities.

Society will no longer tolerate the apparent inefficiencies of multiple duplicative educational efforts.

We must demonstrate better answers in the roles and relationships of the universities, four-year college, community colleges--public and private--in meeting educational goals.

Citing the future and what it holds for the educational process and for America's foundations today was Dr. Robert E. Kinsinger, vice president for programs of the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Michigan.

Kinsinger addressed over 250 educators from all parts of the nation attending the California State Colleges conference on the external degrees at the Kellogg West Center for Continuing Education, California State Polytechnic College, Kellogg-Voorhis, Pomona.

Kinsinger's address, "New Horizons in Higher Education: The Foundations' Role" was presented at the conference's closing luncheon.

Kinsinger said that the nation's foundations must seek out and encourage inventors, great and small, and assist society to incorporate its best ideas into the fabric of its basic institutions.

He said foundations have a unique opportunity of being part of significant educational developments because they deal with innovations, experimentation and pioneering efforts, and they bring different perspective to the analysis of educational problems.

He spoke to the "multiplier effect" of a project's consideration by a foundation. Educators today, he said, must broaden the access to higher education, help improve the instructional process by encouraging and supporting greater creativity, and, in the face of financial restraints, pool resources.

Kinsinger said the foundations are betting that new educational activities, external to the campus, may inspire a whole new system for organizing educational experiences on campus and for evaluating the achievement of educational objectives. Too many persons, and for too long, he said, degrees have been unilaterally tied to the network of departments, credits, requirements, courses, and grades which have been accepted as standard educational design.

Kinsinger said that general-purpose foundations usually govern their program of assistance by undertaking a continuous analysis of the major problems confronting society and those to which at least partial solutions might be encouraged through the use of flexibly-utilized resources. The Kellogg Foundation has long been identified with support for innovative programs and the dissemination of educational concepts which supplement the traditional scope of on-campus, fulltime, youth-oriented, concerns of higher educational institutions.

In the Kellogg Foundation's concern with the application of knowledge to the problems of people and communities, it has consistently searched for the inventors able to apply the idea of lifelong learning in a variety of settings.

The role of all foundations, said Kinsinger, is to continue to provide a launching pad for meaningful innovation... to underwrite the trials of new and better ways to pursue the nation's educational goals... to conserve our relatively limited resources by supporting those improved approaches to the education process that have a reasonable chance of becoming institutionalized--becoming a permanent practice of many educational units.

"We must," he said, "continue to set our priorities by identifying the most important problems and then supporting potential solutions to these problems."

Asparagus-artichokes-rhubarb geared to California gardens

SACRAMENTO - Of all perennial vegetables, asparagus, artichokes and rhubarb are best suited to California's gardens.

They don't require a big plot of ground, nor do they require frequent turning of the soil and replanting; all last for several years.

Asparagus, artichokes and rhubarb may be started from seed, but they are usually propagated by division of the root stocks. The root stocks are available in nurseries right now--during the bare root season. About 30 asparagus, three or four artichokes and a like number of rhubarb plants will provide an adequate yield for the average family of four, advises the California Association of Nurseriesmen.

Asparagus can be planted in a single row, or spaced about 30 inches between rows. Set the plants 8-10 inches deep and 12-18 inches apart in a trench. Add only about two inches of soil now and fill-in the trench as the tops make good growth. Make sure the planting site is in a sunny location. Dedicated gardeners dig-in well-rotted manure with the soil; your nurseryman can recommend a ready-to-use planter mix to incorporate in the soil to achieve the same purpose. Artichokes thrive under coastal conditions, but may produce few or no edible buds in the hot interior valleys. Check with your local nurseryman if in doubt. There are Californians, whose cause they live in extremely hot areas, grow artichokes only for its gray-green ornamental effect. The foliage is indeed striking.

Plant artichoke divisions six inches deep with the tops showing. Space the roots about four feet apart. The rhubarb crown is left above the ground.

License proof required for dogs visiting parks

SACRAMENTO - New regulations governing the entry of dogs into state park units will go into effect the latter part of February, according to William Penn Mott, Jr., Director of the California Department of Parks and Recreation.

The new regulation, adopted by the Park and Recreation Commission at its meeting in Carmel Friday, Jan. 14, will require park visitors with dogs to present a valid license or proof that the dog has had a valid rabies inoculation.

Mott explained that the regulation is designed to protect the health and safety of park visitors.

"We have regulations now that require people to keep their pets under strict control at all times, and most people obey these rules," Mott said. "But there are a few people who break them. When a dog runs loose and bites someone, we have a problem if the dog has no license and we can't find the owner. This means the person who has been bitten doesn't know if he's been bitten by a rabid dog or not."

"If the dog has a valid license, we know it does not have rabies. The same is true if the dog's owner possesses a valid rabies inoculation certificate."
